REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION

15 Currently pending before the Court is Defendant Donald Hugh Nichols's Motion 16 to Dismiss Count 10 for Lack of Federal Jurisdiction (Doc. 70), Motion to Dismiss Count
17 10 – Void for Vagueness (Doc. 71), and Motion to Dismiss Count 10 of the Indictment 18 for Failure to State and Offense (Doc. 72). The Government has filed its responses 19 (Docs. 79, 80, 81) and Defendant replied (Docs. 86, 87, 89). Defendant Donald Hugh 20 Nichol's is charged with seven (7) counts of wire fraud; one (1) count of theft of 21 livestock; and one (1) count of retaliating against a witness, victim, or an informant.
22 Superseding Indictment (Doc. 21).

23 Pursuant to LRCrim. 5.1, this matter came before Magistrate Judge Macdonald for 24 oral argument and a report and recommendation. The Magistrate Judge recommends that 25 the District Court, after its independent review, deny Defendant's motions.

27 I. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

28 Clay Matthew ("Buck") Parsons works at Marana Stockyards, his family's 1 business. Hr'g Tr. 2/7/2020 (Doc. 99) at 32:16–33:11. Mr. Parsons has been employed

2 by Marana Stockyards since 2013. Id. at 33:6–15. Marana Stockyards is a livestock 3 auction that markets cattle for sellers and is a location for buyers to purchase cattle. Id. at 4 33:25–34:3. The cattle sold at Marana Stockyards come from all over Arizona, as well as 5 neighboring states, and occasionally more distant states and Mexico. Id. at 34:4–9, 35:6– 6 8. Mr. Parsons's responsibilities at the stockyard include assisting in the management of 7 the day-to-day business; managing fellow employees; sorting, loading, and unloading 8 cattle; working with accounts receivable; and working with collecting money and 9 custodial accounts. Id. at 33:16–24, 41:22–24.

10 Mr. Parsons described the auction process and indicated that cattle typically arrive 11 at the auction house beginning a couple of days prior to the auction through to the day of 12 auction. Hr'g Tr. 2/7/2020 (Doc. 99) at 34:10–13. Auctions take place on Wednesday, 13 with cattle beginning to arrive as early as the weekend prior. Id. at 34:14–20, 41:25– 14 42:5. Mr. Parsons testified that generally the seller brings the cattle, or if it is a large 15 enough ranch or consigner, the cattle will be shipped to the stockyard. Id. at 34:21–35:1, 16 42:15–25. Mr. Parsons further testified that once the rancher arrives at the stockyard, the 17 cattle are unloaded, inspected, tagged, and paperwork is reviewed. Id. at 35:9–20, 43:17– 18 24. Marana Stockyards stores and cares for cattle until the Wednesday auction, but it 19 does not hold title at this time. Id. at 43:1–16. Mr. Parsons described the actual auction 20 as a live auction where cattle are brought in, weighed, and viewed by sellers and buyers 21 who are in the stands. Hr'g Tr. 2/7/2020 (Doc. 99) at 35:21–36:3, 59:2–17. Mr. Parsons 22 explained that in-person buyers live bid on the cattle, and the auction is also live-23 streamed so that approved buyers can bid online from wherever they are and sellers can 24 watch, as well. Id. at 36:6–23, 59:2–60:5. Mr. Parsons also noted that potential buyers 25 can also bid via telephone. Id. at 36:24–37:1. Mr. Parsons indicated that a large majority 26 of Marana Stockyards' sales are to brokers buying cattle for people out of state. Id. at 27 53:1–14. Mr. Parsons observed that in terms of volume, non-broker purchasers represent 28 a minority of the overall total head of cattle sold. Id. at 53:15–54:1.

1 After a buyer has won the bid, that individual will go into the office, Marana 2 Stockyards will collect payment and exchange paperwork, and then the stockyard will 3 load the buyer's cattle. Hr'g Tr. 2/7/2020 (Doc. 99) at 37:2–16. For online buyers or 4 brokers who are not physically present, the cattle are moved to the individual's or entity's 5 name; the buyer/broker will inform Marana Stockyards when the cattle are leaving, who 6 is hauling them, how they are getting there, and how payment will be made; and Marana 7 Stockyards will send invoices and await payment. Id. The stockyard only takes cash or 8 checks for in-person payment, otherwise payment is received through wire transfer. Id. at 9 37:17–38:7. Once a buyer has paid for their cattle, it is loaded onto trucks or other 10 transport and sent to their destination. Id. at 38:8–14. Mr. Parsons further explained that 11 the seller is paid immediately irrespective of how long it takes the buyer to remit 12 payment. Hr'g Tr. 2/7/2020 (Doc. 99) at 40:19–41:8. Marana Stockyards has a custodial 13 account in which it deposits money from a credit line, and when an animal is sold, the 14 stockyard immediately writes a check to the seller and provides it to them in person, if 15 they are present, or via mail. Id. at 40:19–41:8, 54:19–55:2, 55:23–56:22, 57:20–58:7.
16 As a result, if a buyer fails to pay, Marana Stockyards retains ownership of the cattle. Id.
17 at 44:6–11, 57:20–59:1.

18 Mr. Parsons testified that the Wednesday prior to the hearing an auction was held 19 at Marana Stockyards. Id. at 38:15–16. Mr. Parsons further testified almost 1,100 head 20 of cattle were sold. Id. at 38:17–18. Mr. Parsons also testified that by the time of the 21 hearing, two (2) days later, that there were approximately 100 head of cattle remaining at 22 the stockyard. Id. at 38:19–22. Mr. Parsons indicated that the majority of the thousand 23 cattle that were transported were taken out of state to Texas, as well as California and 24 New Mexico. Hr'g Tr. 2/7/2020 (Doc. 99) at 38:23–39:2, 44:12–17. Mr. Parsons noted 25 that Arizona does not have many places to feed cattle, nor are there many 26 slaughterhouses. Id. at 62:3–63:3. Mr. Parsons explained that occasionally a purchaser 27 would buy more cattle than could be loaded on a single truck. Id. at 50:13–20. In such 28 cases, a buyer might have to arrange for multiple trucks or for smaller numbers of 1 overflow, buyers might arrange with Marana Stockyards to hold the extra head over. Id.

2 at 50:21–51:12. When cattle are held over, buyers are responsible to Marana Stockyards 3 for the cost of feed. Id. at 51:13–16. Mr. Parsons testified that it would be unusual for 4 buyers to put the cattle back up for sale. Hr’g Tr. 2/7/2020 (Doc. 99) at 51:19–52:6.

5 Mr. Parsons noted that on the Thursday or Friday following each sale, Marana 6 Stockyards prepared a market report. Id. at 39:3–5. Mr. Parsons described the market 7 report as a tool that provides an overview of the different classifications and weights of 8 cattle to provide an overview of what was brought that day. Id. at 39:6–10. Mr. Parsons
9 explained that sellers, buyers, other auction barns utilize Marana Stockyards’ market 10 report. Id. at 39:11–23. Mr. Parsons further explained that sellers use the market report 11 to compare how their cattle sold compared to the market as a whole; buyers use it to see 12 if the cattle they purchased were within the range or if they want to buy from Marana; 13 and other auction barns compare their market to Marana Stockyards’ market on that day.
14 Id. Additionally, the market report is one way that Marana Stockyards advertises to 15 buyers and sellers, it is mailed, both electronically and via post, as well as posted on the 16 company’s website. Hr’g Tr. 2/7/2020 (Doc. 99) at 40:2–11. Mr. Parsons reported that 17 Marana Stockyards also advertises via Facebook, word of mouth, and telephone. Id.

18 Mr. Parsons testified that he knew Defendant Hugh Nichols and indicated that he 19 was a bonded buyer at the stockyard. Id. at 45:5–19, 49:17–23. Mr. Parsons described a 20 bonded buyer as someone who is hired to buy cattle and has a bond protecting them in 21 the event that the actual buyer does not pay. Id. at 60:22–61:7. Mr. Parsons further 22 testified that Mr. Nichols would frequently attend auctions and buy cattle for himself and 23 other people out of state. Id. at 45:10–25, 46:20–47:10. Mr. Parsons also testified that 24 although he did not know the exact proportion of cattle that Mr. Nichols purchased to go 25 out of state versus those that he purchased for in state, Mr. Parsons believed that the 26 majority went out of state because he would load them on trucks headed to out-of-state 27 destinations. Hr’g Tr. 2/7/2020 (Doc. 99) at 46:1–19. Mr. Parsons testified that he did 28 not know whether Mr. Nichols owned a ranch. Id. at 61:8–11. Mr. Parsons further

1 testified that at some point he investigated who owed money on the Marana Stockyards 2 accounts receivable account and determined that ninety (90) percent of the money owed 3 was owed by Defendant's businesses—Nichols Cattle Company and Nichols 4 Management. Id. at 63:3–25.

5 Count 10 of the Superseding Indictment (Doc. 21) charges Defendant Nichols with 6 theft of livestock in violation of Section 667, Title 18, United States Code, and states:

7 From on or about August 2013, and continuing through on or about August 8 2017, in the District of Arizona and elsewhere, the defendant, DONALD 9 HUGH NICHOLS, knowingly obtained and used the property of another, to 10 wit: cattle valued at $1,649,585, which has a value of $10,000 or more in 11 connection with the marketing of such livestock in interstate or foreign 12 commerce with the intent to deprive the true owner of the right to the 13 property, a benefit of the property, and to appropriate the property to the 14 defendants' own use or the use of another,, all in violation of Title 18, 15 U.S.C. § 667, Theft of Livestock.

16 Superseding Indictment (Doc. 21) at ¶ 27.¹

17 II. ANALYSIS

18 A. Count 10 — Failure to State an Offense

19 Mr. Nichols asserts that Marana Stockyards “holds and/or administers the funds 20 between buyer and seller using the trust account required under the [Packers and 21 Stockyard Act (“PSA”), 7 U.S.C. § 196], [and] therefore, MSY does not acquire title to 22 the livestock but only stands in the position of a fiduciary.” Def.’s Mot. to Dismiss 23 Count 10 of the Indict. for Failure to State an Offense (Doc. 72) at 3. Because Mr.
 24 Nichols was both the buyer and the seller of his cattle, he asserts that he “never 25 relinquished title to his cattle under theses circumstances and did not violate 18 U.S.C. § 26 667.” Def.’s Mot. to Dismiss Count 10 of the Indict. for Failure to State an Offense 27 (Doc. 72) at 3; see also Def.’s Reply re Failure to State an Offense (Doc. 86) at 2.

28 ¹ This recitation reflects the stipulated removal of Defendant's wife from the Superseding Indictment which occurred during the hearing. See Hr'g Tr. 2/20/2020 (Doc. 99) 7:1–9.

1 Defendant Nichols further urges that “[t]he PSA has provisions for the recuperation of 2 unpaid accounts for market agencies[,]” which would have been the appropriate recourse 3 for Marana Stockyards “for any claims of unpaid trust accounts[.]” Id. at 4. The 4 Government asserts that Marana Stockyards “uses a line of credit to immediately pay 5 sellers on the same day as the sellers sell their cattle at the auction.” Govt.’s Response re 6 Failure to State an Offense (Doc. 81) at 2. The Government explains that as such, “once 7 MSY pays the seller, the cattle becomes the property of MSY until the buyer pays MSY.”
 8 Id.

9 Section 667, Title 18, United States Code provides:

10 Whoever obtains or uses the property of another which has a value of 11 $10,000 or more in connection with the marketing of livestock in interstate 12 or foreign commerce with intent to deprive the other of a right to the 13 property or a benefit of the property or to appropriate the property to his 14 own use or the use of another shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than five years, or both. The term “livestock” has the meaning set forth in section 2311 of this title.

15 18 U.S.C. § 667. “‘Livestock’ means any domestic animals raised for home use, 16 consumption, or profit, such as horses, pigs, llamas, goats, fowl, sheep, buffalo, and 17 cattle, or the carcasses thereof[.]” 18 U.S.C. § 2311. Marana Stockyards is a “sale barn” 18 regulated by the PSA. Govt.’s Response re Failure to State an Offense (Doc. 81) at 2; 19 Def.’s Reply re Failure to State an Offense (Doc. 86) at 3.

20 Here, Mr. Parsons explained that the seller is paid immediately irrespective of how 21 long it takes the buyer to remit payment. Hr’g Tr. 2/7/2020 at 40:19–41:8. Marana 22 Stockyards has a custodial account in which it deposits money from a credit line, and 23 when an animal is sold, the stockyard immediately writes a check to the seller and 24 provides it to them in person, if they are present, or via mail. Id. at 40:19–41:8, 54:19– 25 55:2, 55:23–56:22, 57:20–58:7. As a result, if a buyer fails to pay, Marana Stockyards 26 retains ownership of the cattle. Id. at 44:6–11, 57:20–59:1. Mr. Parsons testified that the 27 paperwork that accompanies a sale includes invoices and brand papers which contain the 28 buyer’s name and information, as well as the animal’s information. Id. at 58:18–59:1.

1 Mr. Parsons further testified that this paperwork also states that Marana Stockyards
 2 retains ownership until the cow is paid for. Id. The Court finds Mr. Parson’s testimony
 3 credible. As such, the Court further finds Defendant’s assertion that “MSY had no 4 ownership or title to the cattle, and therefore, clearly could not have been the victim 5 under 18 U.S.C. § 667” is without merit. The Court recommends denial of Defendant’s 6 motion to dismiss for failure to state an offense.

7 B. Count 10 — Lack of Jurisdiction

8 Mr. Nichols asserts that “assuming arguendo that the Court accepts that the term 9 ‘marketing’ encompasses the sale of livestock at a sale barn, and that the Marana 10 Stockyard is the correctly defined victim, the offense conduct at issue is purely 11 intrastate.” Def.’s Mot. to Dismiss Count 10 for Lack of Fed. Juris. (Doc. 70) at 5. Mr.
 12 Nichols further asserts that “[i]f interstate transport of the cattle occurred, it necessarily 13 must have occurred after the sale at auction of the cattle, necessarily after the act 14 constituting the deprivation of property occurred.” Id. Mr. Nichols also urges that the 15 language of Section 667, Title 18, United States Code, is “more limited in scope, 16 reflecting an intent by Congress not to extend its commerce power to reach fully 17 intrastate conduct[,]” requiring dismissal of Count 10 for lack of federal jurisdiction.
 18 Def.’s Mot. to Dismiss Count 10 for Lack of Fed. Juris. (Doc. 70) at 3. The Government 19 argues that the statute at issue is broader than the authority relied on by Defendant.
 20 Govt.’s Response re Lack of Fed. Juris. (Doc. 80) at 4. The Government further asserts 21 that the allegation of activity by Defendant “in Arizona and elsewhere” is sufficient for 22 jurisdictional purposes. Id. at 5.

23 As an initial matter, “[t]he district courts of the United States shall have original 24 jurisdiction, exclusive of the courts of the States, of all offenses against the laws of the 25 United States.” 18 U.S.C. § 3231. Furthermore, it is well established law that “[a]n 26 indictment returned by a legally constituted and unbiased grand jury, like an information 27 drawn by the prosecutor, if valid on its face, is enough to call for trial of the charge on the 28 merits.” Costello v. United States, 350 U.S. 359, 363, 76 S. Ct. 406, 409, 100 L. Ed. 397

(1956). “[A] defendant may not properly challenge an indictment, sufficient on its face, on the ground that the allegations are not supported by adequate evidence.” United States v. Jensen, 93 F.3d 667, 669 (9th Cir. 1996) (quotations and citations omitted). The Supreme Court of the United States has said “that there are three categories of activity that Congress may regulate under its commerce power: (1) the use of the channels of interstate commerce; (2) the instrumentalities of interstate commerce, or persons or things in interstate commerce, even though the threat may come only from intrastate activities; and (3) those activities having a substantial relation to interstate commerce, . . . i.e., those activities that substantially affect interstate commerce.” Taylor v. United States, — U.S. —, 136 S. Ct. 2074, 2079, 195 L. Ed. 2d 456 (2016) (quotations and citations omitted) (alterations in original). “[T]he starting point in every case involving construction of a statute is the language itself.” Watt v. Alaska, 451 U.S. 259, 265, 101 S. Ct. 1673, 1677, 68 L. Ed. 2d 80 (1981) (citations omitted).

Here, the theft of livestock statute proscribes obtaining or using “the property of another which has a value of $10,000 or more in connection with the marketing of livestock in interstate or foreign commerce with intent to deprive the other of a right to the property or a benefit of the property or to appropriate the property to his own use or the use of another[.]” 18 U.S.C. § 667. “Marketing” is defined as “the act or process of selling or purchasing in a market[.]” Merriam-Webster Dictionary, <https://www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/> (last visited June 26, 2020). “In connection with” is an idiom meaning “in relation to” or “for reasons that relate to.” Id. Defendant likens the scope of the statute at issue to that of a pre-2007 child pornography statute which “punishe[d] any person who knowingly mail[ed], or transport[ed] or ship[ped] in interstate or foreign commerce by any means, including by computer, any child pornography.” United States v. Wright, 625 F.3d 583, 591 (9th Cir. 2010). Defendant urges that the theft of livestock statute represents a narrow exercise of Congress’s commerce power. Def.’s Mot. to Dismiss re Lack of Jurisdiction (Doc. 70) at 3. Defendant further argues that the Government’s failure “to distinguish which

1 transactions properly arose out of interstate transactions and which were solely intrastate”
2 divests this Court of jurisdiction over Count 10. Def.’s Reply re Lack of Jurisdiction 3 (Doc. 89) at 2–3. Defendant asserts that the Theft of Livestock statutes falls within the 4 second category of commerce regulation “involving persons or things in interstate 5 commerce.” Id. at 3.

6 The text of the theft of livestock statute does not support the narrow construction 7 put forth by Defendant. The statute in Wright proscribed the specific and identifiable acts 8 of mailing, transporting, or shipping in interstate commerce. Wright, 625 F.3d at 591.
9 The theft of livestock statute punishes obtaining or using the property of another “in 10 connection with the marketing of livestock in interstate or foreign commerce[,]” which 11 means in relation to the act or process of selling or purchasing in a market. The 12 allegation of Count 10 refers to Defendant’s conduct that occurred “in the District of 13 Arizona and elsewhere.” Moreover, Defendant’s argument places the statute within the 14 second category of commerce clause regulation, “the instrumentalities of interstate 15 commerce, or persons or things in interstate commerce,” but ignores that the Supreme 16 Court has contemplated that “the threat may come only from intrastate activities[.]” 17 Taylor, — U.S. —, 136 S. Ct. at 2079. The Court finds that the plain language of Section 18 667, Title 18, United States Code, supports federal jurisdiction of the charge alleged in 19 Count 10 of the Superseding Indictment and recommends Defendant’s motion to dismiss 20 be denied.

21 C. Count 10 — Void for Vagueness

22 Mr. Nichols asserts that “the language [of the Theft of Livestock statute] is too 23 vague as to properly define a crime.” Def.’s Mot. to Dismiss Count 10 — Void for 24 Vagueness (Doc. 71) at 2. Mr. Nichols argues that the statute violates Due Process 25 because “it fails to give reasonable warning as to what conduct is proscribed and what 26 conduct is not.” Id. at 4.

27 “To satisfy due process, a penal statute [must] define the criminal offense [1] with 28 sufficient definiteness that ordinary people can understand what conduct is prohibited and

1 [2] in a manner that does not encourage arbitrary and discriminatory enforcement.”
2 Skilling v. United States, 561 U.S. 358, 403, 130 S. Ct. 2896, 2928, 177 L. Ed. 2d 619
3 (2010) (quotations and citations omitted) (alterations in original). “In interpreting a 4 statute, [a court] must examine its language[;] [i]f the statute is clear and unambiguous, 5 that is the end of the matter.” United States v. Chhun, 744 F.3d 1110, 1116 (9th Cir.
6 2015).

7 Here, Defendant argues that the term “marketing” is unclear. Def.’s Mot. to 8 Dismiss Count 10 — Void for Vagueness (Doc. 71) at 3–5. As discussed in Section 9 II.B., supra, “marketing” is defined as “the act or process of selling or purchasing in a 10 market[.]” Merriam-Webster Dictionary, <https://www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/> 11 (last visited June 26, 2020). The theft of livestock statute proscribes obtaining or using 12 “the property of another which has a value of $10,000 or more in connection with the 13 marketing of livestock in interstate or foreign commerce with intent to deprive the other 14 of a right to the property or a benefit of the property or to appropriate the property to his 15 own use or the use of another[.]” 18 U.S.C. § 667. As such, an individual is prohibited 16 from 1) obtaining or using; 2) the property of another which has a value of $10,000 or 17 more; 3) in connection with the marketing (the act or process of selling or purchasing in a 18 market) of livestock in interstate or foreign commerce; 4) with intent to deprive the other 19 of a right to the property or a benefit of the property or to appropriate the property to his 20 own use or the use of another. The Court finds the statute’s language is clear and 21 unambiguous and recommends that Defendant’s motion be denied.
22

23 III. CONCLUSION

24 The Court finds that dismissal of Count 10 of the indictment is unwarranted.
